

Radiation Therapy Program Application Information and Pre-Requisites

The 12 Connecticut community colleges are merging under the name Connecticut State Community College (CT State). CT State's first semester of operation will be Fall 2023. For more information about the merger and the new college, please click the following link:

<https://www.ct.edu/ctstate>

All general Gateway campus information can be found on the Gateway website at www.gatewayct.edu. Click on the following link for Allied Health Program information including program specific Information Session dates and times: Allied Health (gatewayct.edu)

Click on this link for Radiation Therapy program specific information Radiation Therapy (gatewayct.edu).

Please note that the pre-requisites for applying to the program have changed to following:

- English Composition (currently ENG*101) completed with a grade of C or higher
- Anatomy & Physiology I, completed with a grade of C or higher within 5 years of application deadline (February 1, 2023).
- Anatomy & Physiology II, completed with a grade of C or higher within 5 years of application deadline (February 1, 2023).
- Pre-Calculus (currently MAT*186) completed with a grade of C or higher within 5 years of application deadline (February 1, 2023).
- Participate in an interview.
- Attendance at one Gateway Campus Radiation Therapy program information session within 12 months of application deadline (February 1, 2023).

Please Note: Official transcripts from other institutions must be sent electronically to the Admissions Office for transfer credit evaluation

This is a full-time, program with a clinical component as assigned.

- Clinical rotations are scheduled from 8a-5p. If the hours at a clinical site are different than the regular scheduled hours, students will follow the schedule of the clinical site they are assigned.
- 40 hour/week clinical shifts during winter & summer intersession
- Students are required to rotate through all clinical sites as assigned